

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. PREFACE.

THE Second Reader of the Normal Music Course is designed for the use of Intermediate and Grammar Schools.

In the First Reader the singers become unconsciously familiar with the staff, the G clef, the whole, half, quarter, and eighth notes, and their equivalent rests.

They were also taught to sing exercises and songs in $\frac{3}{2}$, $\frac{3}{4}$, $\frac{4}{4}$, $\frac{3}{8}$, and $\frac{3}{8}$ measures, and the keys C, G, D, A, E, F, B \flat , E \flat , and A \flat , were introduced.

The same keys are now used with varied examples of divided beats, and other measures are brought in for practice. A large number of Exercises has been prepared in which the various difficulties are illustrated, and numerous songs, with, it is believed, choice and fitting words, follow in each section for entertainment and practical application of the knowledge previously gained.

The Time names T \grave{a} , T \bar{a} , T \acute{o} , T \grave{e} , etc., should never be sung. They should be used according to the directions given in the Teachers' Manual, to illustrate the steps in time, and to develop in the mind of the pupil an intelligent sense of rhythm based on a perception of the relative length of sounds and their proper accentuation.

In singing the exercises the teacher may use the ordinary syllables (do, re, mi, etc.) or the single syllables l \bar{a} , law, l \acute{o} or l \bar{e} . For vocal practice these vowel sounds may also be profitably used without the consonant l (ä, aw, ö, ē). In some cases the vowel sound ö will also be found helpful in placing the vocal organs in position for the production of a pure quality of tone.

Great care has been taken to make the course gradually and easily progressive, yet varied as to the key and sentiment. The first exercises are written for a single voice (Soprano), all being within a compass easily reached by the youngest singers. These are followed by similar exercises and songs for two Sopranos, next in Trio form for two Sopranos and Alto, and lastly with Studies and Trios for Soprano, Alto, and Bass. The melodies upon the F clef may be sung also by the Tenors, and in some instances they are also especially provided for. Several of the songs have received two settings, in order that the singers may notice the effect of added voices after the melody of the song has been learned. At the end of the book is a table of Notes, Rests, and Clefs, followed by a short and concise dictionary of the most familiar Italian words found in ordinary music. It has not been thought advisable to encumber the book with questions and answers about theoretical matters, as such are practically worked out through the regular exercises in singing.

The figures at the beginning of each song indicate the rapidity of movement by metronome. The Manual prepared as a guide for teachers explains concisely the mode of teaching, and also conveys to them many hints with regard to the regular work necessary to attain the best results.

We would again acknowledge our indebtedness to Messrs. Lee & Shepard, Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Estes & Lauriat, of Boston, George Routledge & Sons, McLoughlin Bros., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., of New York, publishers, and to many authors of poems, for kind permission to use the same for musical settings.

In the studies following Ex. 474, and Song No. 108, a little wider range has been introduced.

All difficulties in tune and time are first introduced in single-voice melodies in different keys, each key beginning with easy exercises. The two and three-part exercises and songs are also classified in like manner. This is thought to be the best arrangement of the material for practical use. It is not intended, however, that the children shall complete all the work in tune and time in the single-voice melodies before being introduced to the two and three-part exercises and songs which may be used at the discretion of the teacher from time to time as the progress of the children may permit.

Especial care will be necessary in singing these songs with regard to light and shade, and also to the slight but desirable changes of movement. Every teacher will understand these suggestions, after carefully reading the words which form the basis of the musical settings.

Since the original publication, it has been deemed advisable to issue the Second Reader in two parts, the first comprising the studies and songs for one and two voices, the second, beginning with the Trios, containing selections for unchanged voices, Sopranos and Altos, and also Trios and Quartets with parts for Bass and Tenor. For a proper study of Sight-reading, as illustrated in the Course, it will be necessary to use both parts of the Second Reader, following closely the progressive order as given.

1. When the mer - ry lark doth gild . . With his song the sum - mer hours,
- 2 Now from off the ash - y stone The chil - ly mid-night crick-et cri - eth,
3. Yet, be mer - ry; all a - round . . Is through one vast change re-volv-ing;

And their nests the swal-lows build In the roofs and tops of tow - ers,
And all mer - ry birds are flown, And our dream of pleas-ure di - eth;
E - ven Night, who late-ly frowned, Is in pal - er dawn dis - solv - ing.

And the gold - en broom-flower burns All a - bout the waste,
Now the once blue laugh - ing sky Sad-dens in - to gray,
Earth will burst her fet - ters strange, And in Spring grow free;

And the maid - en May re - turns With a pret - ty haste,
And the froz - en riv - ers sigh, Pin - ing all a - way!
All things in the world will change, Save my love for thee!

Then, how mer - ry are the times! The Sum-mer times! the Spring times!
Now how sol - emn are the times! The Win - ter times! the Night times!
Sing then, hope - ful are all times — Win - ter, Sum-mer, Spring times!

Ex. 457.

Musical score for "The Rose Tree" in G major, 2/4 time. The score is for voice and piano. The voice part is in treble clef, and the piano accompaniment is in bass clef. The key signature has one sharp (F#). The tempo is marked "Allegretto". The score consists of two systems. The first system has a vocal line and a piano accompaniment line. The second system continues the vocal line and piano accompaniment. The piano accompaniment features a rhythmic pattern of eighth and sixteenth notes. The vocal line is a simple melody. The score ends with a double bar line.

A musical score for the song "The Rose Tree". The score is written for voice and piano. The voice part is in the upper staff, and the piano accompaniment is in the lower staff. The key signature is one sharp (F#), and the time signature is 4/4. The piano part features a prominent melody in the right hand, with the left hand providing harmonic support. The melody is characterized by a series of eighth and sixteenth notes, creating a lively and rhythmic feel. The piano part also includes some chords and single notes, complementing the voice melody. The overall style is a simple, folk-like arrangement suitable for a children's song.

A musical score for the song 'The Rose Tree'. It consists of two staves, a treble staff and a bass staff, both in the key of D major (indicated by two sharps: F# and C#) and 4/4 time. The melody is written in the treble staff, and the bass line is in the bass staff. The melody starts on D4, goes up to E4, then F#4, and continues with various intervals. The bass line starts on D3, goes up to E3, then F#3, and continues with various intervals. The score includes a key signature change from D major to D minor (indicated by two naturals: F and C) and back to D major (indicated by two sharps: F# and C#). The melody ends with a final D4 note.

Ex. 494.

Example 494 is a three-staff musical exercise in 3/8 time with a key signature of one sharp (F#). The first staff features a melody of eighth and sixteenth notes, often beamed together. The second staff provides a harmonic accompaniment with longer note values. The third staff contains a bass line with rests marked by an 'x' and a final melodic phrase.

Ex. 495.

Example 495 is a three-staff musical exercise in 2/4 time with a key signature of one sharp (F#). The first staff begins with a treble clef and a key signature of one sharp, then changes to a bass clef and a key signature of two flats (Bb) for the remainder of the piece. The second staff has a treble clef and one sharp, then changes to a bass clef and two flats. The third staff remains in a bass clef with two flats. The piece includes various note values and rests.

This block shows the continuation of Example 495, specifically the final measures of the piece. It consists of three staves in a bass clef with a key signature of two flats (Bb). The first staff ends with a double bar line and a repeat sign. The second and third staves continue the melodic and harmonic lines, also concluding with a double bar line and a repeat sign.
